Dear John Wu,

Thank you for contacting the American Heart Association (AHA) and American Stroke Association.

We appreciate your interest in our organization and apologize for any inconvenience. We also appreciate your efforts to help combat cardiovascular disease and understand how important it is for people to learn and be informed on issues affecting their health and the prevention of cardiovascular disease.

Unfortunately, American Heart Association staff cannot review any external content outside of the AHA. We are only able to review content that is created internally and is used for our audiences.

We suggest you submit an abstract for the next Scientific Sessions. This conference attracts nearly 18,000 professional attendees, with a global presence from more than 100 countries. In addition, 2 million medical professionals participate virtually in lectures and discussions about basic, translational, clinical and population science. Abstract submissions open in April 2017.

Here are links to additional information on current research projects and opportunities you might find interesting and useful:

- About AHA Research
- Application Information
- Awards and Policies

We are committed to providing our customers with an exceptional service experience. Please take a moment to respond to our brief survey.

If you need more information, please do not hesitate to contact us again. We are available 24 hours a day, seven days a week at 1-800-242-8721 or 1-214-570-5978.

Sincerely,

Patricia Brignoni

Subject: Proposal for cures for high blood pressures

To Whom It May Concern:

This booklet provides detailed instructions on using Qigong to cure high blood pressures. This article can be found from <http://www.igoosa.com/igoosabk/jsp/open/readArticle.jsp?boardId=47&recordId=4>.

The booklet also discusses diseases reversibility. This disease theory can change the fakes for tens of millions premature deaths. When the stake is so high, still no body cares about it. I am not sure whether heart.org is really interested in finding cures. It is only a business for getting donation.

American Heart Association is unreachable. I ask President Steven Houser to try reach it with any important issue other than donation. It should see something more important than donation may be in front of heart.org.

It is about life and deaths that everyone may face in his or her life.

This is a cause for the entire mankind.

If anyone art heart.com might be interested in contacting me, please provide me with a correct email address.

Sincerely yours,

John Wu, Ph.D.
